

EMS Conference – 2013: Introduction

The International Conference on Engaged Management Scholarship has been established as the venue for the advancement and sharing of knowledge related to engaged management scholarship carried out by professional business doctorate programs. The conference is organized yearly by the Executive Doctorate in Business Administration Council \(EDBAC\) which has broad international representation of executive doctoral providers. Our purpose is to promote the value of engaged management scholarship and to raise its profile internationally. The 2013 Conference is organized by the Executive Doctorate program at Robinson College of Business at Georgia State University in the US.

Conference highlights

The Conference will consist of research papers, poster sessions, panels, invited talks, presentations, and a doctoral consortium. It is open to all scholars who are actively involved in practicing engaged management scholarship or investigating different forms of it. The Conference is the premier international meeting place for students, alumni, faculty and managers involved in professional business doctorate programs around the world.
